Status of this document. These Terms and Conditions form part of the contract between you and FinTrust Bank Limited in relation to your credit card. Unlike the Bank's internal policies, this is a customer-facing document that creates rights and obligations directly enforceable between you and the Bank. Please read it together with the Most Important Terms and Conditions summary supplied with your card and the Schedule of Fees and Charges in Annexure A.

Monetary references. All amounts are expressed in Indian Rupees. The fees, charges and rates in Annexure A are those in force on the effective date shown above. They may be varied in accordance with Clause 20, and the current Schedule published on the Bank's website prevails over the figures reproduced here.

Interpretation. "You" means the person in whose name the card account is opened; "we", "us" and "the Bank" mean FinTrust Bank Limited. Words importing the singular include the plural. A reference to a Clause is a reference to a Clause of these Terms. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect interpretation.

1. About These Terms

1.1 Who These Terms Are Between

These Terms and Conditions ("these Terms") govern the credit card issued to you by FinTrust Bank Limited ("we", "us", "the Bank"). "You" means the person in whose name the card account is opened, and includes any add-on cardholder where the context requires.

1.2 When These Terms Apply

These Terms take effect when the earliest of the following happens: you sign and return the acknowledgement accompanying your card, you activate your card, or you use your card for the first time. Once they take effect, they continue to apply until your card account is closed and all amounts owing on it are paid in full.

1.3 Documents That Form Your Agreement

Your agreement with us consists of these Terms, the Schedule of Fees and Charges in Annexure A as it stands from time to time, the Most Important Terms and Conditions summary given to you with your card, the welcome letter setting out your credit limit and cash limit, and the terms of any rewards programme or instalment facility you take up. If there is any inconsistency between these Terms and the Most Important Terms and Conditions, the latter prevails to the extent of the inconsistency.

1.4 Please Read Before You Use the Card

Using your card means you accept these Terms. If you do not accept them, do not activate or use the card. Instead, tell us within thirty days of receiving it and we will close the account and refund any joining or annual fee already charged.

1.5 How to Contact Us

You can contact us through the twenty-four hour helpline number printed on the reverse of your card, through the mobile application, through internet banking, at any branch, or by writing to the address published on our website. Report a lost or stolen card, or a transaction you did not authorise, using the helpline or the in-application reporting option; these are available at all hours.

2. Definitions

Add-on Card means a supplementary card issued at your request to a person you nominate under Clause 5.

Available Credit means your credit limit less the total of amounts billed but unpaid, transactions authorised but not yet billed, and any amount blocked under Clause 6.6.

Billing Cycle means the period between two consecutive statement dates, ordinarily one month.

Card Account means the account we maintain in your name recording all transactions, fees, charges, interest and payments relating to your card.

Cash Advance means cash withdrawn using your card at an automated teller machine or over the counter, and includes any transaction we are required to treat as equivalent to cash under Clause 7.5.

Credit Limit means the maximum amount you may owe us on the card account at any time, as notified to you and as varied under Clause 7.

Grace Period means the period between the statement date and the payment due date, during which retail transactions in that statement do not attract interest if you pay the total amount due in full.

Minimum Amount Due means the least amount you must pay by the payment due date to keep the account regular, computed under Clause 10.3.

Payment Due Date means the date by which we must receive your payment, shown on your statement.

Statement means the periodic account statement we issue under Clause 9.

Total Amount Due means the entire balance outstanding on the card account as at the statement date.

Unauthorised Transaction means an electronic transaction on your card account that was not authorised by you or by an add-on cardholder.

3. Eligibility and Your Application

3.1 Who May Apply

You may apply for a card if you are eighteen years of age or above, are resident in India or hold a category of residency we accept, have an income or asset profile meeting the criteria for the card you seek, and satisfy our credit assessment and customer identification requirements.

3.2 Information You Give Us

You must give us complete and accurate information in your application and whenever we ask for it afterwards. You must tell us promptly if your address, contact number, electronic mail address, employment, income or residency status changes. We may rely on the information you give us until you tell us it has changed.

3.3 Our Decision

We decide whether to issue a card at our discretion. We are not obliged to give reasons for declining an application, but where we decline on the basis of a credit information report we will tell you which credit information company supplied it so that you may obtain a copy.

3.4 Verification and Credit Assessment

You authorise us to verify the information you give us, to obtain credit information reports about you, and to make such enquiries as we consider necessary, both when you apply and at any time while your account is open.

3.5 The Card Remains Ours

Every card we issue remains our property. You must return it to us, or destroy it as we direct, when we ask you to or when the account is closed.

4. Your Card

4.1 Delivery

We will send your card to the address you have given us, in a manner that requires acknowledgement of receipt. Cards are sent in an inactive state and cannot be used until activated. If your card does not reach you within fifteen days of the date we tell you it was dispatched, tell us and we will trace it and, if necessary, cancel it and issue a replacement at no charge.

4.2 Activation

You must activate your card before using it, through the mobile application, internet banking, the helpline, or by responding to the one-time password we send you. We will not activate a card on the instruction of anyone other than you.

4.3 Cards Not Activated

If you do not activate your card within thirty days of the date we dispatch it, we will contact you. If you still do not activate it within thirty days of that contact, we will close the card account without charge and tell you we have done so. If any joining or annual fee has been charged, we will reverse it.

4.4 Signature and Personal Identification Number

Sign the reverse of your card as soon as you receive it. Choose a personal identification number that is not easily guessed, do not write it down, and do not share it with anyone, including anyone claiming to be from the Bank. We will never ask you for your personal identification number, your card verification value, or a one-time password.

4.5 Validity and Renewal

Your card is valid until the expiry date shown on it. We will ordinarily issue a renewal card before that date. We may decide not to renew, in which case we will tell you at least sixty days before expiry. You may tell us at any time up to thirty days before expiry that you do not want a renewal.

4.6 Replacement

If your card is damaged, or you need it replaced for any reason other than loss, theft or a security concern, we will replace it and may charge the replacement fee in Annexure A. We will not charge for a replacement issued because of a defect in the card, because we have re-issued cards for security reasons, or following a report under Clause 17.

4.7 Contactless Functionality

Your card may allow contactless payments up to the per-transaction limit prescribed by the applicable regulation, without a personal identification number. You may switch contactless functionality off at any time through the mobile application or internet banking, at no charge, and switch it on again the same way.

5. Add-on Cards

5.1 Who May Hold an Add-on Card

You may ask us to issue an add-on card to your spouse, parent, child or sibling who is eighteen years of age or above. We will carry out our identification requirements on that person before issuing the card.

5.2 Your Responsibility

You remain responsible for all transactions on an add-on card, all fees and charges relating to it, and all interest arising from those transactions, as if they were your own. The add-on cardholder is not separately liable to us for the balance on the card account.

5.3 Sub-limits

You may set a spending sub-limit for an add-on card, expressed as an amount or as a proportion of your credit limit. Add-on card usage counts towards your credit limit; a sub-limit does not increase it.

5.4 Information and Privacy

The statement is issued to you and shows transactions on add-on cards. We will not give an add-on cardholder information about the card account beyond their own transactions, and we will not give you information about an add-on cardholder's other dealings with us.

5.5 Cancellation

You may cancel an add-on card at any time by telling us; the cancellation takes effect when we receive your instruction and the card is blocked. An add-on cardholder may also surrender their own card. Cancelling an add-on card does not affect your liability for transactions made before the cancellation took effect.

6. Using Your Card

6.1 What You May Use It For

You may use your card to buy goods and services from merchants that accept it, to withdraw cash under Clause 7.5, and for any other facility we make available on the card account. You must not use it for any purpose that is unlawful.

6.2 Prohibited Uses

You must not use your card:

- For any transaction prohibited by law, including the purchase of lottery tickets, betting and gambling, and remittance in any form for those purposes, where prohibited.
- For any transaction in foreign exchange that is not permitted under the applicable foreign exchange regulations.
- To obtain cash from a merchant by presenting the card for a purchase that does not take place.
- To fund a business or to route business receipts, where you hold a card issued for personal use.
- After we have told you that your right to use it has been suspended or withdrawn.

6.3 Authorising a Transaction

A transaction is authorised when you sign a charge slip, enter your personal identification number, complete an additional factor of authentication, present the card for a contactless payment within the applicable limit, or otherwise instruct a payment in a manner we accept. Once authorised, a transaction ordinarily cannot be stopped.

6.4 Standing Instructions and Recurring Payments

You may set up recurring payments on your card. You must register recurring payments above the prescribed threshold with an additional factor of authentication, and we will send you a pre-debit notification before each such payment. You may cancel a recurring payment through the mobile application, internet banking or the helpline; cancellation takes effect for payments falling due after we receive your instruction. Cancelling with us does not end your contract with the merchant.

6.5 If a Transaction Is Declined

We may decline a transaction where you have insufficient available credit, where the transaction appears inconsistent with your usual pattern, where a security concern arises, where a technical failure occurs, or where declining is required by law. We are not liable for any loss arising from a transaction being declined, unless the decline was caused by our own error.

6.6 Blocks and Holds

Some merchants, such as hotels, car hire companies and fuel stations, seek authorisation for an estimated amount. We will block that amount against your available credit until the final amount is presented, and for no longer than thirty days. Blocked amounts reduce your available credit but do not attract interest and are not billed.

6.7 Setting Your Own Controls

You may switch your card on or off for domestic transactions, international transactions, contactless payments, online transactions and cash withdrawals, and you may set your own limit for each, through the mobile application or internet banking at any time and at no charge. A card issued to you is enabled only for domestic transactions at the point of issue; you must switch on international use before you travel.

7. Credit Limit and Cash Limit

7.1 Your Credit Limit

We set your credit limit when we issue the card and tell you what it is in your welcome letter. Your available credit is shown on your statement and in the mobile application.

7.2 Staying Within Your Limit

You must keep the balance on your card account within your credit limit. If a transaction takes you over the limit, we may decline it, or we may authorise it and charge the over-limit fee in Annexure A. We will only charge that fee if you have given us your express consent to over-limit transactions; if you have not, we will not authorise them and no fee arises.

7.3 Increasing Your Limit

We may offer to increase your credit limit. We will not increase it without your express consent given at the time of the offer, and consent given once does not authorise a later increase. Any increase follows an assessment of your ability to repay.

7.4 Reducing Your Limit

You may ask us to reduce your credit limit at any time, and we will do so within seven days. We may reduce your limit where your credit profile deteriorates, where you have breached these Terms, or where we are required to; we will tell you before doing so, unless we are prevented from giving notice or delay would expose us to loss.

7.5 Cash Limit

A part of your credit limit is available as a cash limit, shown in your welcome letter and on your statement. The following are treated as cash advances and are charged accordingly: withdrawal of cash at an automated teller machine or over the counter, the purchase of foreign currency, and any transaction we identify as being equivalent to cash. Cash advances attract interest from the day of the transaction, with no grace period, and a cash advance fee.

8. Transactions in Foreign Currency

8.1 Conversion

A transaction in a currency other than Indian Rupees is converted into Indian Rupees at the exchange rate applied by the card network on the day it settles with us, which may not be the day you made the transaction. We then apply the foreign currency mark-up in Annexure A to the converted amount.

8.2 Dynamic Currency Conversion

Some merchants abroad offer to bill you in Indian Rupees rather than the local currency. If you accept, the exchange rate is set by the merchant or its service provider, not by us, and is usually less favourable. We still apply the mark-up in Annexure A because the transaction remains an international one. We recommend you choose to be billed in the local currency.

8.3 Regulatory Compliance

Transactions in foreign currency must comply with the applicable foreign exchange regulations. You are responsible for that compliance. We may report your international transactions to the authorities where required, and may decline a transaction that appears not to comply.

8.4 International Usage Controls

International usage is switched off when your card is issued. You must switch it on under Clause 6.7 before travelling. We recommend you switch it off again when you return, and set an international transaction limit appropriate to your needs.

8.5 Refunds on Foreign Transactions

Where a foreign currency transaction is refunded, the refund is converted at the rate applying on the day the refund settles with us, which may differ from the rate applied to the original transaction. The mark-up charged on the original transaction is reversed in proportion to the refund.

9. Your Statement

9.1 When We Issue It

We issue a statement for each billing cycle in which there has been any transaction or any balance outstanding. We send it to your registered electronic mail address, or by post if you have not registered one, and make it available in the mobile application and internet banking. We will not charge you for your regular statement.

9.2 What It Shows

Your statement shows the opening balance, every transaction in the billing cycle with its date and description, fees, charges and interest applied, payments and refunds received, the total amount due, the minimum amount due, the payment due date, your credit limit and available credit, your cash limit, and the reward points earned, redeemed and available.

9.3 Time to Pay

We will give you at least fifteen days between the statement date and the payment due date. If you have not received your statement by five days before the payment due date, tell us; not receiving it does not excuse late payment, but we will not charge a late payment fee where the delay in your receiving the statement was our fault.

9.4 Changing Your Statement Date

You may ask us to change your statement date, and we will do so once in a financial year at no charge. The billing cycle in which the change takes effect may be longer or shorter than a month, and we will tell you how this affects your grace period.

9.5 Checking Your Statement

Please check each statement when you receive it. If you think there is an error, tell us within sixty days of the statement date. If you do not, we will treat the statement as correct, except in the case of an unauthorised transaction, which is governed by Clause 16 and which you should report as soon as you become aware of it.

10. Paying Us

10.1 Your Obligation

You must pay us at least the minimum amount due by the payment due date. Paying only the minimum amount due keeps the account regular but means the rest of the balance carries interest under Clause 11.

10.2 How to Pay

You may pay by transfer from any bank account, through the mobile application or internet banking, by standing instruction on a FinTrust account, at a branch, or by any other method we make available. A payment is treated as received when it is credited to your card account, which may be later than the day you make it. Allow at least three working days for payments made from another bank.

10.3 Minimum Amount Due

The minimum amount due is the total of:

- Five per cent of the total amount due; and
- The whole of any instalment falling due in the billing cycle under Clause 13; and
- The whole of any amount by which you exceed your credit limit; and
- The whole of any amount that was due in an earlier cycle and remains unpaid, subject to a floor of Rs. 200 or the total amount due, whichever is lower.

10.4 How We Apply Your Payment

We apply what you pay in the following order. Within each category, we apply the payment to the oldest amounts first.

Order	Category
1	Fees and other charges
2	Interest
3	Amounts overdue from earlier billing cycles
4	Instalments due under Clause 13
5	Cash advances
6	Retail transactions

Applying payments in this order means that if you do not pay the total amount due, the balance that remains is the one attracting the highest cost.

10.5 Payments Made in Excess

If you pay more than the total amount due, the excess is held as a credit balance on your card account. A credit balance does not earn interest. You may ask us to refund it at any time and we will do so within seven working days. We will refund any credit balance automatically when the account is closed.

10.6 Set-Off

We may set off a credit balance on your card account against an amount you owe us on the same account. We will not set off against a balance in any deposit account you hold with us without giving you fourteen days' notice, and we will never do so against an account into which your salary or pension is credited, except under an order of a court or other competent authority.

11. Interest and How We Calculate It

11.1 When Interest Is Not Charged

If you pay the total amount due in full by the payment due date, we do not charge interest on retail transactions in that statement. This is the grace period. It does not apply to cash advances, which attract interest from the day of the transaction.

11.2 When Interest Is Charged

We charge interest on retail transactions if you do not pay the total amount due in full by the payment due date. In that case interest runs on each transaction from the date of the transaction, not from the statement date or the due date, and continues until the balance is paid in full. This means paying part of the balance does not stop interest on the part already incurred.

11.3 Rate

The rate of interest is that shown in Annexure A and on your statement, expressed both as a monthly rate and as an annual percentage rate. The rate may differ by card variant and may be varied under Clause 20.

11.4 Calculation

Interest is calculated on the daily outstanding balance and is applied monthly on the statement date. An illustration of how interest is calculated on a typical account is set out in Annexure B.

11.5 Loss of the Grace Period

If you do not pay the total amount due in full in a billing cycle, you lose the grace period for the following cycle as well, and interest applies to new retail transactions in that cycle from the date of each transaction. The grace period is restored from the cycle after you again pay the total amount due in full.

11.6 Interest on Fees

Fees and charges form part of the balance and attract interest in the same way as retail transactions if not paid in full by the payment due date. We do not charge interest on interest already applied.

12. Fees and Charges

12.1 The Schedule

The fees and charges that apply to your card are set out in Annexure A and in the Most Important Terms and Conditions given to you. We will not charge you anything that is not in the Schedule as it stands at the time.

12.2 Joining and Annual Fees

Any joining fee is charged in the first statement. Any annual fee is charged in the statement for the month in which the anniversary of the card falls. Where the Schedule provides that the annual fee is waived on a stated spend in the preceding year, we will apply the waiver automatically and you do not need to claim it.

12.3 Late Payment Fee

If we do not receive at least the minimum amount due by the payment due date, we charge the late payment fee in Annexure A. We charge it once per billing cycle. We will not charge it where the failure was caused by our own error, or where you have paid the whole of the minimum amount due but a shortfall of Rs. 100 or less remains.

12.4 Taxes

Goods and services tax and any other applicable tax is charged on fees, charges and interest at the rate in force, and is shown separately on your statement.

12.5 Fees We Will Not Charge

We will not charge you for: your regular statement; a duplicate statement for the current or immediately preceding cycle; switching card controls on or off under Clause 6.7; reducing your credit limit; closing your account; a replacement card following a report under Clause 17; correcting our own error; or making a complaint.

12.6 Changes to Fees

We may introduce a new fee or increase an existing one only in accordance with Clause 20.

13. Instalment Conversion

13.1 What This Is

You may convert an eligible transaction, or a part of your outstanding balance, into equated monthly instalments over a tenure we offer. Instalment conversion is optional.

13.2 Before You Convert

Before the conversion takes effect we will tell you the amount converted, the tenure, the rate of interest, the processing fee, the amount of each instalment, the total amount you will pay, and the foreclosure charge. We will not convert a transaction into instalments without your express consent given after that disclosure. We will not enrol you into an instalment plan by default.

13.3 How Instalments Are Billed

Each instalment appears on your statement and forms part of the minimum amount due in full. The unbilled principal of an instalment plan counts against your credit limit and reduces your available credit.

13.4 Foreclosure

You may foreclose an instalment plan at any time by paying the outstanding principal together with the foreclosure charge in Annexure A. We will not charge interest for any period after foreclosure. We will tell you the foreclosure amount within two working days of your asking.

13.5 Reversal of a Converted Transaction

If a transaction that has been converted into instalments is refunded or reversed, we will cancel the plan, credit the refund to your account, reverse any unaccrued interest, and refund the processing fee in proportion. We will tell you what we have done in the next statement.

14. Rewards

14.1 Earning

Where your card carries a rewards programme, you earn points on eligible transactions at the rate published for your card variant. Categories that do not earn points, including cash advances, fees, interest, taxes, fuel transactions, wallet loads and transactions later reversed, are published with the programme terms.

14.2 Reversal of Points

If a transaction on which points were earned is refunded, reversed or found to be fraudulent, we will reverse the points. If your points balance is insufficient, we may recover the value of the shortfall as a charge on your card account, and we will tell you before doing so.

14.3 Validity

Points are valid for the period published for your card variant and lapse at the end of it. We will tell you in your statement when points are due to lapse within the following three months.

14.4 Redemption

Points may be redeemed as published. Points have no monetary value except on redemption, cannot be transferred except where the programme terms allow, and cannot be exchanged for cash.

14.5 Changes to the Programme

We may change the earning rate, the redemption options, the excluded categories or the validity period on sixty days' notice. Points already earned before a change takes effect remain redeemable on the terms under which they were earned, for the validity period applying at that time.

14.6 When Rewards Stop

You cannot earn or redeem points while your account is overdue, suspended or closed. Points that have not been redeemed lapse when the account is closed, whether by you or by us.

15. Disputed Transactions and Chargebacks

15.1 Raising a Dispute

If you think a transaction on your statement is wrong, other than an unauthorised transaction under Clause 16, tell us within sixty days of the statement date. Explain what is wrong and give us any supporting documents you have.

15.2 What We Do

We will acknowledge your dispute immediately and give you a reference number. We will investigate and, where the card network rules allow, raise a chargeback with the merchant's bank. We will keep you informed and will tell you the outcome within sixty days of your raising the dispute.

15.3 Provisional Credit

Where the dispute concerns a transaction you say did not take place, goods or services you did not receive, or an amount that was charged twice, we will credit the disputed amount to your account within ten working days while we investigate. That credit is provisional. If the investigation goes against you, we will reverse it after giving you fifteen days' notice with our reasons.

15.4 Interest During a Dispute

We will not charge interest on a disputed amount while the dispute is open, and we will not treat the disputed amount as overdue for the purposes of Clause 18 or of any report under Clause 19. If the dispute is resolved against you, interest applies from the original transaction date.

15.5 Your Contract with the Merchant

Your purchase is a contract between you and the merchant. A dispute about the quality, delivery or description of goods or services is in the first instance a matter between you and them, and we ask that you try to resolve it with the merchant before raising it with us. A chargeback right is not available in every case, and where it is not, we will tell you and explain why.

15.6 Refunds from Merchants

A refund from a merchant reaches your account when the merchant's bank sends it to us. A refund does not count as a payment towards your minimum amount due, and does not extend your payment due date.

16. Unauthorised Transactions

16.1 Tell Us Immediately

If you see a transaction on your account that you did not authorise, tell us immediately using the helpline or the in-application reporting option. Both are available at all hours. We will acknowledge your report at once, record the date and time we received it, give you a reference number, and block your card.

16.2 Alerts

We send an alert for every transaction on your account to your registered mobile number and, where you have registered one, your electronic mail address. Each alert lets you report an unauthorised transaction directly. Please keep your contact details current with us; we cannot alert you if we do not have them.

16.3 How Much You Are Liable For

Circumstance	What you pay
Our own fraud, negligence or a deficiency on our part	Nothing, whether or not you reported it
Someone else's breach, with no fault on our part or yours, and you told us within 3 working days	Nothing
The same, and you told us within 4 to 7 working days	The lower of the transaction value or Rs. 10,000
The same, and you told us after 7 working days	Determined under Clause 16.5
Loss caused by your own negligence, such as sharing your personal identification number or a one-time password, for transactions before you told us	The full amount
Loss caused by your own negligence, for transactions after you told us	Nothing

Working days are counted from the date you receive our alert about the transaction.

16.4 Reversal While We Investigate

We will credit the disputed amount to your account within ten working days of your report, while we investigate. We will complete the investigation and tell you the outcome within ninety days. If the investigation shows you are liable, we will reverse the credit after giving you fifteen days' notice with our reasons. If we do not complete the investigation within ninety days, the credit stands and we will not reverse it.

16.5 Proving Liability

If we say you are liable, it is for us to prove it. We will record the evidence we rely on, and the decision will be approved by a senior officer. We will not treat your not having registered a mobile number as negligence on your part.

16.6 If We Are Late

If we miss a timeline in this Clause, we will credit you compensation of Rs. 100 for each day of delay. You do not have to ask for it.

16.7 No Effect on Your Credit Record

While a reported transaction is under investigation, we will not treat the amount as overdue, will not charge interest or a late payment fee on it, and will not report it as overdue under Clause 19.

17. Lost, Stolen or Misused Cards

17.1 Tell Us at Once

If your card is lost or stolen, if you think someone else knows your personal identification number or one-time password, or if you think your card details have been compromised, tell us at once using the helpline or the mobile application. We will block the card immediately and confirm the block to you.

17.2 Blocking the Card Yourself

You may block your card yourself at any time through the mobile application or internet banking. A block takes effect immediately. You may unblock a card you have blocked, provided it was not blocked because of a report of loss, theft or compromise.

17.3 Your Liability

Your liability for transactions after a loss or theft is determined by Clause 16.3. You are not liable for anything charged to the card after you have told us.

17.4 Replacement

We will issue a replacement card, at no charge, within seven working days of your report. The replacement carries a new card number and a new expiry date. Recurring payments registered on the old card will not carry over automatically; we will send you a list of the recurring payments we hold on record so that you can re-register those you want to keep.

17.5 If You Find the Card

If you find a card you have reported lost, do not use it. Destroy it by cutting through the chip and the magnetic stripe, and tell us you have found it.

17.6 Helping Us Investigate

You must give us the information we reasonably need to investigate a loss, theft or misuse, and must cooperate with us and with the police if a complaint is made. We may ask you for a written confirmation of your report, but we will not make our acting on your report conditional on receiving it.

18. If You Do Not Pay

18.1 When Your Account Is Overdue

Your account is overdue if we do not receive at least the minimum amount due by the payment due date. When that happens we may charge the late payment fee, charge interest under Clause 11, suspend your right to use the card, and decline further transactions.

18.2 Contacting You

If your account falls overdue we will contact you to remind you and to understand your position. We will contact you between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m. only, will identify ourselves, will not contact you at your workplace if you ask us not to, will not contact your relatives, neighbours or employer about your debt, and will not use any language or conduct that is abusive, threatening or humiliating. If you tell us you are in financial difficulty, we will discuss the options available to you.

18.3 Recovery Agents

If we engage an agent to recover an amount from you, we will tell you the agent's name and contact details before they contact you. Our agents are bound by the standards in Clause 18.2, and we remain responsible for their conduct. You may ask us at any time to deal with you directly rather than through an agent.

18.4 Withdrawing the Facility

We may suspend or withdraw your right to use the card, and require you to pay the whole of the outstanding balance immediately, if you fail to pay an amount due, if you exceed your credit limit and do not regularise it, if you have given us information that is materially false, if you use the card for a purpose prohibited under Clause 6.2, if you become insolvent, or if we are required to by law or regulation. Except where we are prevented by law or where delay would expose us to loss, we will give you seven days' notice before doing so.

18.5 Financial Difficulty

If you are in financial difficulty, tell us. We may agree a repayment arrangement with you. Where we do, we will confirm it to you in writing, setting out what you must pay and by when, what interest and charges will apply, and how the arrangement will be reported under Clause 19.

18.6 Costs

If we take legal steps to recover an amount from you, you must pay our reasonable costs of doing so. We will not charge you for internal collection activity.

19. Credit Information Reporting

19.1 What We Report

We report information about your card account to credit information companies each month, as we are required to. What we report includes the credit limit, the balance outstanding, the amount overdue if any, and the number of days it has been overdue.

19.2 Effect on You

A record of overdue amounts may make it harder or more expensive for you to obtain credit in future, from us or from anyone else. Paying at least the minimum amount due by the payment due date each month avoids this.

19.3 Before We Report an Adverse Entry

Before we report an amount as overdue for the first time on your account, we will send you a notice telling you what we intend to report and when, so that you have an opportunity to pay or to tell us if you think we are wrong.

19.4 Correcting an Error

If you tell us that something we have reported is wrong, we will investigate and tell you the outcome within thirty days. If we find we were wrong, we will correct the report with every credit information company to which we sent it, within seven days of reaching that conclusion, and will confirm to you that we have done so.

19.5 Closing the Account

When your account is closed and the balance is paid in full, we will update the credit information companies within thirty days to show the account as closed with a nil balance.

20. Changes, Closure and Termination

20.1 Changes We May Make

We may change these Terms, the fees and charges in Annexure A, the rate of interest, and the features of your card. We may do so to reflect a change in law or regulation, a change in our costs, a change in the card network's rules, or a change in the product.

20.2 Notice of Change

We will tell you at least thirty days before a change takes effect. Where a change increases a fee, increases the rate of interest, or reduces a benefit, we will tell you at least sixty days before it takes effect, except where the change is required by law or regulation and a shorter period applies. A change to the rewards programme is governed by Clause 14.5.

20.3 If You Do Not Accept a Change

If you do not accept a change, you may close your account without charge by telling us before the change takes effect. You must still pay everything you owe, on the terms that applied before the change. Continuing to use the card after the change takes effect means you accept it.

20.4 Closing Your Account

You may close your account at any time by telling us through any of the channels in Clause 1.5. We will close it within seven working days of receiving your request, provided you have paid everything you owe. We will not charge you for closing your account, will not ask you to give a reason, and will not make closure conditional on your accepting an offer to stay. If we cannot close the account because an amount remains outstanding, we will tell you the amount within three working days of your request.

20.5 What Happens on Closure

On closure, your right to use the card ends immediately, add-on cards are cancelled, unredeemed reward points lapse, instalment plans become payable in full unless we agree otherwise, and any credit balance is refunded to you within seven working days. Transactions made before closure but presented afterwards remain your liability, and we will bill them to you in a final statement.

20.6 Closure by Us for Inactivity

If you do not use your card for a continuous period of twelve months, we will tell you that we intend to close the account, and will close it if you do not respond within thirty days. Closure for inactivity is free of charge, and we will report the closure under Clause 19.5.

20.7 Termination by Us

We may terminate your card account on thirty days' notice, and immediately where Clause 18.4 applies. We do not have to give reasons for terminating on notice, but we will not do so because you have made a complaint, exercised a right under these Terms, or asked us to stop marketing to you.

21. Your Information

21.1 Confidentiality

We treat information about you and your account as confidential. We disclose it only where the law compels us, where a court or other competent authority orders us to, where there is a duty to the public to disclose, where our own interests require it and then only to the minimum extent necessary, or where you have given us express and informed consent. This duty continues after your account is closed.

21.2 Who We Share It With

We share information about your account with credit information companies as described in Clause 19, with the card network to process your transactions, with service providers who act for us under obligations of confidentiality no less strict than our own, and with the authorities where we are required to. We remain responsible to you for what our service providers do with your information.

21.3 Marketing

We will use your information to market other products to you only if you have consented. You may withdraw that consent at any time, through any channel in Clause 1.5, without affecting your card or these Terms. We will give effect to your withdrawal within seven days.

21.4 Seeing Your Information

You may ask us for a copy of the information we hold about you, and may ask us to correct anything that is wrong. We will act on a correction request within ten working days, or tell you in writing why we will not.

21.5 Keeping It Safe

We maintain safeguards appropriate to the sensitivity of the information we hold. Our staff have access only to what they need. If information about you is compromised in a way likely to harm you, we will tell you without undue delay, explain what was involved, and tell you what you should do.

21.6 What You Should Do

Keep your card, your personal identification number, your one-time passwords and your card verification value secure. We will never ask you for them. Do not enter your card details on a site you have reached through a link in an unsolicited message. Tell us at once if you think anything has been compromised.

22. Complaints, Governing Law and General

22.1 Making a Complaint

If something has gone wrong, tell us through any channel in Clause 1.5. We will acknowledge your complaint, give you a reference number, and give you a substantive response. We will not charge you for making a complaint.

22.2 If You Are Not Satisfied

Level	Who	Time to respond
1	Cards Service Manager or Branch Manager	7 business days
2	Regional Nodal Officer	14 business days
3	Principal Nodal Officer	21 business days
4	Internal Ombudsman	30 days
5	External Banking Ombudsman	As prescribed by the scheme

If we propose to reject your complaint wholly or in part, we will refer it to our Internal Ombudsman before telling you our decision. If we have not responded within thirty days, or if you are not satisfied with our response, you may take the matter to the external Banking Ombudsman, and we will tell you how in every final response.

22.3 Our Liability

We are liable to you for loss you suffer that is caused by our fraud, our negligence, or a deficiency in our service, including any loss under Clause 16. We are not liable for loss arising from a merchant refusing to accept your card, from a dispute about goods or services, or from an event outside our reasonable control, provided we have taken reasonable steps to reduce its effect.

22.4 Force Majeure

Neither of us is liable for a failure to perform caused by an event outside our reasonable control. If such an event affects our services, we will tell you and restore service as soon as we reasonably can.

22.5 Transfer

You may not transfer your rights or obligations under these Terms. We may transfer ours, but only if doing so does not reduce your rights or increase your obligations, and we will tell you if we do.

22.6 Waiver

If we do not enforce a right under these Terms on one occasion, that does not mean we give up that right.

22.7 Severability

If any part of these Terms is found to be unenforceable, the rest continues to apply.

22.8 Language and Interpretation

These Terms are issued in English and may be issued in translation. In the event of a conflict, the English version prevails. Headings are for convenience only. The singular includes the plural.

22.9 Governing Law and Jurisdiction

These Terms are governed by the laws of India. The courts at the place where your card account is maintained have jurisdiction, save that you may bring proceedings in the courts of the place where you reside.

Annexure B: How Interest Is Calculated

B.1 The Example

This illustration shows how interest arises when a statement is not paid in full. The interest rate used is 3.50% per month, being 42.00% per annum, or approximately 0.1151% per day.

Event	Date	Amount
Statement date for the cycle	05 June	—
Retail purchase	10 June	Rs. 20,000
Retail purchase	25 June	Rs. 10,000
Statement date, total amount due Rs. 30,000	05 July	Rs. 30,000
Payment due date	22 July	—
Payment actually made	22 July	Rs. 5,000
Next statement date	05 August	—

B.2 The Calculation

Because the total amount due of Rs. 30,000 was not paid in full, no grace period applies. Interest runs on each purchase from its own transaction date.

Component	Period	Days	Interest
Rs. 20,000 from 10 June	10 June to 22 July	42	Rs. 967
Rs. 10,000 from 25 June	25 June to 22 July	27	Rs. 311
Rs. 25,000 remaining after payment	22 July to 05 August	14	Rs. 403
Total interest in the August statement			Rs. 1,681

B.3 Points to Note from the Example

- Interest ran from 10 June, the date of the first purchase, not from the statement date of 05 July or the due date of 22 July.
- Paying Rs. 5,000 of a Rs. 30,000 balance did not stop interest on the Rs. 25,000 that remained, nor on the period already elapsed.
- Had the full Rs. 30,000 been paid by 22 July, no interest would have arisen at all.
- Because the total amount due was not paid in full, the grace period is also lost for the following cycle, so purchases made in July attract interest from their own transaction dates.
- Goods and services tax applies to the interest amount and is charged in addition.
